No. added by gift,	10

No. of volumes of fiction lent,	1,577
No. of unbound magazines lent,	454

Total circulation for year,	2,440

There are one hundred and four library days in the year, but, for various reasons, the library was closed on twenty of those days, leaving only eighty-four when books were sent out from the library. This accounts in a great measure for the decrease in the circulation. Books have been sent to and from East and West Rindge by parcels post, and our thanks are due Mr. Danforth and Mr. Fuller for transporting books free of charge, as heretofore.

Of the ten books which were added by gift during the year two were given by Miss Ware, and seven by David Mathewson.

Additions were made to the museum by Mrs. W. F. Wilder and Mr. Holmes.

A few copies of Harvard Library notes, American Boy, National Geographic Magazine and Literary Digest have been contributed to the reading room—valuable additions to our list of magazines.

Respectfully submitted,

ELLA M. BRIGHAM,
Librarian.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE INGALLS MEMORIAL LIBRARY

From December 31, 1919 to January 1, 1920

To the Town of Rindge:

Owing to illness and other causes, the report for the past year is a very imperfect one. The circulation of books has been unusually small, again owing in part to illness, and the oversight of the trustees has been very imperfect. There is much that should be done at the library in repairs and re-cataloguing; and there are books at the West Rindge Branch which should be removed to the Ingalls library, as the Branch library is so small that no more books can be added until space is made for them.

The trustees ask for the usual appropriation of three hundred dollars besides the interest money; for although there is a surplus left from the income of the last year, repairs will be needed, and work and fuel are still high.

In closing, I wish to offer my resignation from the board of trustees, hoping however that I may still be allowed to have the care of the Museum and of its exhibits which, in one way, still belong to me. It has been a very great pleasure and privilege to have the opportunity to carry out in part, at least, the wishes of the generous donor of the Ingalls Library. I wish especially to express my grateful appreciation of the faithful and unfailing care during twenty-six years, of the janitor, Mr. Barrett. He has made it possible for the town to hold in safety, not only the valuable library, but also the loans and gifts contributed by its public spirited citizens to the Museum.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY LEE WARE,

EXTRACT FROM REPORT OF STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

The following is copied from the Report of the State Board of Education for the biennial period ending August 31, 1920.

TRANSPORTATION

It is probable that transportation troubles bring more complaints to this office and cause local school boards a greater amount of annoyance than troubles of any other nature. Because of this the advice has frequently been given from this office that, wherever sufficient children can be gathered so that a real school will result, the local school should be retained and community center. Certainly this should be done, if adequate transportation cannot be furnished. It is difficult to find men who are willing at a reasonable sum to transport children to school. For this reason districts are urged to make a careful study of their transportation problems, to arrange regular routes for transportation so that a considerable number of children may be gathered by one driver and to procure for the use of the district proper transportation barges. These barges should be the property of the district.

INDIVIDUAL AND JOINT RESPONSIBILITY

If the feeling of local initiative, personal responsibility and individual co-operation can be developed until it has common acceptance, our plan for the distribution of state aid will be more effective than any other. This attitude, however, must be accepted both by the individual parent and by the collective school district.

The school district is responsible for providing adequate schools. The purpose of state aid, is to establish standard minimum conditions below which no district may fall and it does this in order that children may not suffer disabilities. It does not do it to relieve the district of responsibilities. In addition to appropriations sufficient to meet the state standards and to obtain state aid, if needed, each district should make such further provision for its children as its means will allow and as its ideals require. The position often expressed, "We have raised the five dollars that the law requires and now the state must give the rest," does not express the law. It is an attempt to avoid responsibility and it does not represent the New Hampshire ideals of local initiative and of personal responsibility.

Rather the statement should be, the state has aided us so that no child may be deprived of proper schooling and so that average schools may be maintained. Our town is not satisfied with average schools and our children are worthy of even better opportunities than the law forces us to provide. For these advantages we propose to tax ourselves above what is "required by law."

We must all emphasize this principle, if our law is to be a success and if our schools are to prosper. The parent is responsible. Too many parents take a similar position. In effect they say, "It matters not where I live or under what conditions. The state is obliged to educate my child and bring him to effective maturity."

It is not the purpose of our laws to relieve parents of natural responsibility. It provides means and methods so that no child shall be denied the reasonable rights of childhood, food, clothing, care, and education, but it stops there and the parent in accord with his ability and with the worth of his child makes provision for additional opportunities, not "required by law." Not all teachers are competent. Not all buildings are commodious. Not all children may be transported from their doors. There are difficulties incident to every step of administration of our schools, and parents working with school officers must take the better with the worse, feeling at all times their responsibility to do more than is "required by law" for the advantage of their children.

Too often now a parent establishes an isolated home and demands a school or transportation for his child. No school is possible. No one, even at great cost, can be found in the sparsely populated town who will contract for transportation. The father refuses to co-operate. He will not allow his child to be boarded with relatives or in some suitable home. He will not transport his own child, even though liberally paid. He is within his legal rights and he makes his demand heedless of his child's welfare. The embarrassed school board can find no solution and is forced to makeshift arrangements. The child meanwhile receives little real schooling.

A modification of our attendance laws is necessary to require such parents to join the several school officers or to present an alternative plan for ultimate decision of the Commissioner of Education. This situation today prevails in many towns and a solution must be found.

THE STEAM SAWMILL PROBLEM

In the last two decades many fortunes have been made by profiteers who denuded our hills of their forests and left the state temporarily or permanently impoverished. Neither the state as a whole nor the country towns profit from these operations and it is certain that, if this wealth is to be taken from the rural towns, by some form of taxation greater return should be made to them.

1. The mills are followed by a group of laborers who live in shacks under conditions frequently disastrous to family life. The children follow the mill and have but brief attendance before by removal, they change to another school. The rural towns are forced to furnish expensive transportation or to engage teachers and to repair closed school buildings for brief occupancy only.

2. The loss to the towns from fires originating with lumber operations and spreading rapidly through the slash, left where the mills have done their work, has been in some cases most serious.

3. Logs are usually carried on heavy motor trucks over long distances and country roads damaged extensively by traffic for which they were not designed. By these trucks many excellent, improved town roads have been damaged beyond repair, as was the one at Richmond last summer.

4. The town suffers these losses and in the end must carry on its existence and support of its institutions with financial valuation much less than before its hills were stripped of their timber.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Rindge:

I submit herewith my third annual report, this being the seventeenth of the series under district supervision.

It was necessary at the opening of the school year to transport the pupils from West Rindge above the fifth grade. Last year this school had an enrollment of 25 pupils, but during the fall term there were 30 left after transporting the pupils belonging to the three highest grades. Some pupils have left since that time so that the enrollment is now 25.

This transfer from West Rindge left a fair sized grammar school at Rindge Center and made possible better work in each school.

We were fortunate in securing Miss Counihan to remain another year at West Rindge. She refused several attractive offers to remain in this school and I feel that the parents in this community appreciate the service that she has rendered during the past four years.

As she is now able to devote her entire time to the five grades in this school we may look for even better results this year than last.

For the primary school at Rindge Center, Miss Sarah Maxwell of Antrim was secured. Miss Maxwell has had considerable experience and last summer attended the summer session of the Keene Normal School.

This school has an enrollment of 17 pupils in the first four grades. The results in this school have been exceptionally good.

The position in the upper grades at Rindge Center was fully as difficult to fill as a year ago. From May until the first of September candidates were written to but few were at all interested. Twice we thought the position had been filled, but in both instances the candidates returned the contract unsigned, stating that they had accepted a better paying position.

Finally, on September 2nd, Miss Bernice A. Powers of Leominster, Mass., was secured. Miss Powers, a graduate of Fitchburg Normal School, had taught in Massachusetts and Vermont. She did good work during the two months that she remained in this school, but asked to be released the first of November, and the school board granted her request. Miss Nellie Geronimo, who was at that time substituting in East Jaffrey, was elected to succeed Miss Powers. Miss Geronimo has attended the Aroostook (Me.) State Normal School, and taught last year in Caribou, Me.

Miss Geronimo has shown herself well adapted to teach the upper grades and the work done in this school has been quite satisfactory.

The East Rindge school is considerably larger than last year, showing an enrollment of 22 as against 17 last year. In this school, as at the Center, it was difficult to interest candidates, and it was necessary to delay the opening of the fall term a week in order to secure a teacher. Miss May A. Sullivan, a graduate of Worcester State Normal School was chosen to teach this school.

The discipline of the East Rindge school has not been as good as it should be and the work has not shown the progress expected. A school having seven out of the eight grades, even though small in numbers, requires more experience and ability than is required in a larger school of only two or three grades. It has been extremely difficult during the last two or three years, however, to find experienced teachers who are willing to teach several grades when there are so many calls in the school of one and two grades in the larger places.

Last year I quoted Gen. Frank S. Streeter, Chairman of the State Board of Education, regarding the scarcity of teachers and the necessity of offering adequate salaries. The Rindge school board was prompt to comprehend the situation and has offered generous salaries in all the schools in the district. It is probable that salaries have reached about as high a figure as they are likely to reach in the immediate future, although the scarcity of trained teachers is likely to exist for some time. There should, however, be more difference between the salaries paid trained and experienced teachers and inexperienced teachers.

New teachers should be started at a salary that can be increased as their services and experience seem to warrant. It is due to our teachers that they receive the hearty co-operation of the homes in their district, and in return the parents have a right to expect from our teachers, earnest, conscientious and skillful teaching. No teacher who considers that her work begins at nine in the morning and is all over at half past three in the afternoon, is doing her duty to her school. Daily preparation is essential. Children have a right to drink from a running brook rather than from a stagnant pool. Methods are changing, events occur with marvelous rapidity, new discoveries and new inventions are crowding upon us from every field and direction, and teachers must study and grow and progress, or eventually be thrown as drift wood upon the shores of time.

During the past year the work started in making a physical examination of every pupil was resumed, and Dr. Emerson of Fitzwilliam was secured to do the work in our schools. This is in line with the requirements of the new state law and if properly followed up cannot help having a beneficial effect upon the health of the pupils.

There is no present prospect of any decrease in our school expenses. While salaries will probably not go much, if any higher, there is no probability of any decrease. Books and supplies are higher than ever before, fuel shows no sign of being cheaper, and there is little hope for any decrease in the expense of transportation.

The school conditions in Rindge are as favorable as can be expected in schools where so many grades are in charge of one teacher. Two schools have four grades each, one has five and one seven out of eight.

It is difficult to give so many classes the attention they deserve and to give the individual attention to the pupils that they should have. Trained and experienced teachers, however, are meeting this problem each day and the results are, in most cases, gratifying.

The schools deserve the best that we can give them. Your homes have an assessed value, but your children are priceless. The children of your town are the best asset of Rindge. To the development of this asset we should bend every energy.

Thanking you for the loyal and generous support you have given me during the past year, I am

Very cordially yours,

LEWIS S. RECORD,

Superintendent of Schools.
